It was a trip I'll never forget. It was a sunny day in the mid of August when my parents told me "Get ready, we are going on a car trip to the mountains!" I was a bit confused, but also excited. I packed my bag and me, my parents and my little sister set off. pc

sp. I was watching some picturesque views passing by the car window, high mountains ~~the~~ looking like huge bizarre creatures, the fields and the cloudy sky. After a few hours we were at about 2000 meters above the sea level and started to set up a camp near the road, which, to be honest, was pretty challenging. My parents couldn't stop gasping in amazement "What an amazing day!" We decided to sit on a fallen tree near our car to take a rest and light up the fire. My mum, dressed in her warm plaid and scarf Lex, my father and sister, putting on their hats because it was pretty cold there, we all gathered to share emotions. We couldn't stop smiling while discussing our breathtaking experience in such a bewildering atmosphere.

The best thing that day was, undoubtedly, the sunset. Red, pink, yellow sunrays were tearing the purple clouds, creating an incredible color show. We ~~didn't~~ ~~had~~ any words to describe our feelings. We were just sitting there together, holding hands and thinking about all the small but important things which make us feel alive and happy. gr
