It was a trip I'll never forget. It all started from the idea which had ~~come~~ <sup>come</sup> to my dad's mind. He suggested going on a family trip to spend some time together in the fresh air. Due to adventurous character <sup>(40)</sup> my mother was not confused for a second and immediately <sup>(50)</sup> said "Agreed". Needn't to say that I dreamt of this vacation more than anyone else.

As we prepared food, clothes <sup>9</sup> and a tent we set off for our trip. We <sup>20</sup> have chosen a picturesque place in 10 miles from London as our destination. After the arrival we had a plenty of things to do since my parents liked to be <sup>110</sup> in motion. Although my mum <sup>120</sup> ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup> mild and calm, she loved playing sports, whereas father, as an artistic person, <sup>130</sup> was fond of listening to music. As you can imagine <sup>140</sup> we had no time to get bored.

No sooner had dark approached than we fall asleep. Suddenly I heard a <sup>160</sup> loud noise. The idea of checking it out was bizzare but I couldn't <sup>170</sup> manage my curiosity. I went into dreadfull forest and found a <sup>180</sup> barking dog. It had <sup>190</sup> blood on its fur and I decided <sup>200</sup> to help. "Wake up! We shouldn't procrastinate!", I screamed and in the next ten minutes <sup>210</sup> we were at vets, having the operation for dog done. <sup>220</sup>

I burst into tears <sup>230</sup> as I heard my mum <sup>240</sup> saying "Please, find an owner for it". She looked at me <sup>250</sup> angrily and said that I didn't deserve a dog <sup>260</sup> because <sup>270</sup> my challenging travelling in the wood alone. I understood her but though decided to become ignorant.

A week after dad brought that dog to our house. He knew about my desire to have a pet. Besides, mother approved of it as she saw that I wouldn't be able to live without it. <sup>280</sup> total 245
