This report is made in order to compare the attendance of museums and galleries in England over the years and to provide recommendations about the ways of improving it.

Overall number of visits to national museums and galleries has been respectively increasing. On the other hand, the rate at which these increments has been happening has slowed down since 2015.

For example in 2015 British Museum had 2,5 mln visitors more, compared to 2013, whereas in 2017, compared to 2015 numbers increased only by 0,5 mln. Same ~~was~~ situation can be described for the other museums and galleries which did not introduce admission charges in 2014.

Touching the subject of the museums which did introduce additional payments, they lost more than a half of their public, compared to their state year before changes. ~~But it was~~

Judging by the collected data, the following recommendation can be given. Museums which did not introduce admission charges in 2014 should gather the information about the events which occurred during the time period from 2013 to 2015 and led to colossal improvements in this sphere, and make changes according to information gathered.

To museums which did made described changes in 2014, substantial suggestions and recommendations cannot be given, due to the inadequate amount of information about their state after the changes.

To sum up number of visits to national museums and galleries has been increasing over the last years. But there is a possibility of some decreasements in that regard, and ~~that~~ this must be prevented.
