Attendance of museums and galleries in England.

^{- Introduction} Museums are widely visited by most of the tourist, who come to England. Today I would like to make an overview on the data of the visits to national English museums to see which of them are the most visited and why. ^{- Introducing the data}

To begin with, the most vast in variety of exhibitions British museum, which appear to be very satisfying, has a huge ^{substantial} increase in visitors in the period 2013 - 2017. It is quite predictable, since it has exhibits from all around the world. There is also an increase in such ^{galleries places} museums as Natural History and National and Tate galleries, which numbers of attendants have risen.

^{- Comparing the data} However, in some museums, such as Natural History museum and Science museum, the statistics are not so optimistic. The attendance has fallen from 3,7 millions to 1,6 millions ^{comparing to previous years}.

^{- Recommendations} I suppose it might be useful to give some recommendations. It is seen that the entrance fee can draw on the museums' attendance, so the directors should reduce the entrance admission charge, due to, for example, attracting students. And if they want to grow respectively they can introduce ^{at the entrance} souvenir shops and cafes.

To sum everything up, I would like to rate the most visited museums: British museum and National Gallery; and least visited: Science and Natural History museum. The numbers could be increased by directors following some of the instructions given in the previous paragraph.
