Subject: attendance of museums and galleries

Date: 11/02/19

Introduction. The aim of this report is to summarize and compare data from the chart, which ^{shows} ~~compares~~ the attendance of ^{five} museums and galleries, and to give recommendations what could be done to increase attendance.

Summary. One of the noticeable features is that the rate of attendance drops increasingly after the introduction of admission charges. The second feature is that the British Museum appeals the biggest amount of people throughout the whole period of time between in both 2015 and 2017.

Comparisons. The first comparison which can be made between the Natural History Museum and the Science Museum and other galleries and museums. The first ones have introduced admission charges. We can notice substantial decrease and increase of attendance respectively. The second comparison shows that the Tate Gallery is less popular than the National Gallery.

Recommendations. My firstly, admission charges is not a likeable option, as it will lead to the noticeable drop of attendance. Secondly, I recommend to create wide variety of exhibitions and change them more frequently. This recommendation is based on the rate of attendance of the British Museum and the National Gallery, which exhibitions help them to draw on more people.

Conclusion. I hope that ~~the~~ ^{the} given summary of the data and ^{the} above recommendations will prove themselves useful and will help to increase people's attendance of museums and galleries.
